WE NOMINATE

James Hillier, dedicated 45-year old physicist and vice-president of RCA's David Sarnoff Research Laboratories, who this past week was singled out for one of medicine's highest honors—an Albert Lasker Award conferred for outstanding, self-less achievement under the auspices of the American Public Health Association. This coming Thursday the unassuming Hillier and Dr. Ernst Ruska, of the Berlin Institute of Technology, West Germany, will be jointly honored (receiving $2,500 each) for "the design, construction and perfection of the electron miscroscope as an essential tool of modern medical research."

At a point in history when the life sciences are splitting headlines with nuclear fission and fusion, the Canadian-born Hillier and his German colleague are being cited for extending the "range of human vision to objects several hundred times smaller than those which can be seen with a light microscope . . . The remarkably precise electron instrument, the potential power of which is still to be fully resolved, has produced a broad reawakening of interest in the fine structure of biological material and has demonstrated the existence of order in dimensions which previously were invisible."

The Lasker Award, one of nine to be conferred in 1960, pinpoints that Hillier, associated with RCA for the past two decades and a naturalized American citizen since 1945, was the first scientist in the Western Hemisphere ever to achieve magnifications of 200,000 diameters and was the inventor of the microanalyzer. The latter device, a near relative of the electron miscroscope, made it possible—even before the Korean War—to analyze a particle as miniscule as 100,000th of an inch in diameter and weighing as little as 1/1,000,000,000,000th gram.

Hillier, a product of the University of Toronto and for several years RCA's chief engineer for commercial electronics products, including the increasingly important "electronic highway," received his first high honor a decade ago in his native Brantford, Ontario. In this Ontario community, once the home of Alexander Graham Bell, school officials paid unusual tribute to a man in his 30's by naming their new building for their most famous living alumnus. Hillier, the honored graduate, attended the school's opening and returned to Nassau Street—still convinced he was very much alive but shaken by such honors.

Active in a half dozen learned societies, ranging from the Electron Miscroscope Society of America to the Industrial Research Institute, Hillier is the author of some 150 articles in professional publications and holds—at last count—nearly 40 patents. It was he who largely set the stage for his own life's work by taking as early as 1947 step-by-step pictures of how an infinitesimal virus invades and, then, actually destroys a living cell. He and his associates subsequently succeeded in carrying human vison, and understanding, down into the sub-world of life on its smallest scale.

For his contributions to the creation of an urgently needed research weapon; for opening pathways that will lead to an increased understanding of uncharted growth processes, including cancer; for quiet, and always distinguished, achievement; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee for

"THEY'RE EVEN"—GALLUP

Semi-Final Survey Results. "The two presidential candidates are neck-and-neck," Dr. George Gallup reported in a pre-election interview with TOWN TOPICS. "Our semi-final poll shows Kennedy and Nixon each backed by 48 percent of those who are most likely to vote. If we use the percentages from people who are eligible to vote and say that they 'intend' to vote, we get Kennedy 49 percent and Nixon 45 percent.

"There has been no important change in this picture since February, as a matter of fact, and this is the first election in which neither presidential candidate has made any important gains over such a long pre-convention, pre-election period."

The percentage figures quoted here are based on 6,820 interviews made in 263 precincts across the nation from October 5 through 7.

The much-publicized "undecided" vote is now about 4 to 6 percent, according to Dr. Gallup, and this percentage is approximately what it was in the presidential elections of 1952 and 1956. However, Dr. Gallup points out that there is a difference between "indecision" and "not feeling very strongly one way or another."

"Some people have suggested that we poll by asking 'which of the two candidates do you regard as the lesser evil?'" Dr. Gallup says. "There are many voters who don't feel strongly about the candidate of their choice, although they will vote for him.

"We find that only six out of every ten Nixon supporters and five out of every ten Kennedy supporters feel strongly about their man. This is in contrast to 1956, when seven out of ten Eisenhower voters were strong for him, and six out of ten Stevenson voters were strongly in favor of him."

New Factors Present. This year, Dr. Gallup sees new factors in the presidential race (which may make the chances of survey error greater than before.) One is the religious issue, another is the lack of great enthusiasm for either candidate and a third is the continuing closeness of the race in every section of the country.

Aside from these factors, and the problem of the undecided voter who may not make up his mind until he's within the sanctity of the polling booth, the Gallup people face the problem of sorting out those who will vote from those who won't.

Dr. Gallup solves this problem as best he can by asking ten different questions about the amount of interest a voter has in the election, whether he knows where to vote, whether he actually intends to go to the polling place, barring a broken leg or lack of a baby sitter, and so on.

Silver Anniversary. It was 25 years ago this month that the Gallup Poll sent its first release to 40 newspapers, operating with a staff of four from offices in the First National Bank Building. Today, 120 papers (more during elections, of course) are served by the organization, which maintains a permanent staff of 30 and 1000 interviewers across the country.

Dr. Gallup has been quoted as saying "In this business, if you miss once, you're dead." However, the polls predicted a Dewey victory when Truman won in 1948, and the Gallup organization is more alive than ever.

"Our major concern is not to pick winners," Dr. Gallup explains. "It's how close we come to the mark that's important. Our average deviation is 1.7 percent, and in a close election that 1.7 could put us on the wrong side. We could be right, and be 20 percent away from the mark, or wrong and be only 1 percent away from it."

In 1948, Dr. Gallup said the goal of his organization was an average error of 2 percent in the next two decades, so the 1.7 figure represents victory-plus.

"In the words of the song, 'we've gone about as far as we can go,'" Dr. Gallup comments. "In the year 2000 we won't be much lower than 1.7 percent. After all, error is inherent in any polling operation, and we know two things with absolute certainty: (1) we'll be wrong in some elections, and (2) no other system has been devised that will be any closer than we are."

Next Tuesday, a week before Election Day, Gallup interviewers will begin to take the final poll, and the end results will be in by the Saturday before election.

Margin for Error Exists. "That's the latest we can possibly be," Dr. Gallup says. "You have to be a philosopher about that gap in time, and hope that your figures are on the right side. We have no scientific basis for making a prediction — we could guess, but that would bastardize the idea of polling."

In 1956, Gallup poll figures show that Eisenhower's percentage went up about 3 points in the final 10 days before election because of the Hungarian and Suez crises. In 1948, figures show that Truman gained enough votes in the last two weeks to win.

No one knows, of course, whether there will be a similar shift in voter sentiment in 1960. Dr. Gallup warns people who like to make predictions from his figures that it is the electoral and not the popular vote that determines who the winner is. Small differences in the popular vote are, therefore, not large enough to enable any one to call the winner with any certainty.

Who's President? The Gallup organization has grown, amoeba-like, from its beginnings in 1935. The American Institute of Public Opinion — which is the Gallup Poll — the International Institute of Public Opinion, covering 23 countries, Public Opinion Surveys and Gallup and Robinson have all grown out of the first small office at 90 Nassau.

Mrs. Gallup tells a story about a trip she made one day to New Brunswick. She was stopped on the street by an interviewer who asked her his assigned question. After she had answered, Mrs. Gallup asked the interviewer what his organization was and he replied, "Public Opinion Surveys."

That night when she arrived home, Mrs. Gallup told her husband about the encounter and asked, "What is this 'Public Opinion Surveys'?"

"Didn't you know?" Dr. Gallup replied. "You're the president of it!"

ROUND-UP

Police Chief Raymond Mondone has announced that six radio cars and 20 men will patrol the streets Sunday and Monday to prevent vandalism during Hallowe'en. . . "good, clean fun will be permitted, malicious mischief will be prosecuted," according to the official word. . .children under 16 are required by law to be off the streets after 8:30 at night, unless accompanied by an adult.

Sub-freezing temperatures were recorded for four straight days during the past week, Friday morning's 26 being the lowest. . . Monday produced a brief snow flurry. . .last Thursday's 2.48 inches of rain raised the total for the month almost to normal. . . and speaking of weather, a replanting program will be undertaken next spring for the 35 borough-owned trees lost to hurricane Donna.

As everywhere, political news and comment plays a major part in the current issue of TOWN TOPICS. . .the "Why I Plan to Vote Series" returns to the presidential level (page 19) and the recent articles at the municipal level have drawn replies in "Mailbox" (page 15). . . "Question of the Week" (page 21) conducts a straw vote on the identity of the next tenant of the White House.

On the light side of the political picture, these items: Prince Hospital reported the simultaneous discharge of two patients, one Kennedy, one Nixon. . .an automobile around town reflects its owner's wishful thinking with a bumper sticker plumping for a "Kennedy-Lodge" ticket. . .and a TOWN TOPICS' reporter got a jolt when a phone call plugging a local aspect of the Nixon campaign was made by a Kennedy.

Spiders in the news: John Jackson and John O'Neill, the Borough's maintenance men for parking meters, report that numerous meters about town become jammed by house-hunting spiders . . .seems they crawl down the coin slots, spin their webs inside the meter mechanism and eventually the coins jam on the tough spider fiber.

"I'M IN FAVOR . . ."

Candidates Speak Out. The League of Women Voters' annual candidates' meeting was held Tuesday night, and except for an unexpected fusillade between Township Committeemen Stanley C. Smoyer and William Marvel, it was a well-ordered meeting in which candidates expressed their views on ways in which Borough and Township can cooperate in furthering joint planning.

The Smoyer-Marvel exchange came after Richard Frost, Democratic candidate for Township Committee, had said that the Township was only now getting recreation facilities through the efforts of Mr. marvel and wouldn't even have a Board of Recreation Commissioners if it hadn't been for the Democrats.

Mr. Smoyer, in the audience question-period, said that Mr. Frost was "100 percent wrong" and that, in fact, Mr. Marvel's 1958 campaign statements had delayed the acquisition of Community Gardens by a full year.

Mr. Marvel retorted that Mr. Smoyer had yet to point out any error of fact in the Marvel campaign statement, that the Community Gardens' delay was due to a disagreement with the trustees of the Garden about a wholly different matter, that Mayor Fairman had in fact appointed Mr. Marvel to see what he could do to move things forward in Township recreation, and that it was indeed by Mr. Marvel's initiative that the Board of Recreation Commission was established.

Robert van de Velde, Democratic candidate for Borough Council, said that all four Borough and Township Democratic candidates had visited State Highway Commissioner Dwight Palmer who told them that the state would hold public hearings late this fall on the 206-A by-pass, would complete its engineering plans within eight to 12 months, would then spend one year acquiring land, and would start digging for the highway in about two years.

"I'm not sure how frank he was about all this," said Mr. van de Velde. "He said there was nothing Princeton could do until fund allocation comes up, but I think we can keep at them all the time."

COMMITTEE MEETS

Briefly. In the briefest public session it has ever held—a scant 25 minutes—Township Committee met on Monday night to consider several brief items of community business.

Committee denied Our Lady of Princeton's request for a waiver of the Township's building permit fee. The convent is about to build a chapel, classrooms and an addition to the convent proper, and it based its request for a waiver on the grounds that it is a non-profit organization. Committee pointed out that other non-profit groups in the Township pay the permit fee, and that there was no reason to make an exception in this case.

Committeeman Stanley C. Smoyer reported that a new Township fire code will probably be introduced at the November 7 meeting. The code will, like the Borough's new code, follow the recommendations set forth by the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

Township Committee plans to appoint the same men to its Bureau of Fire Prevention that the Borough has already appointed to its Bureau, so that the code will be enforced by the same people in both municipalities. The Bureau will make inspections, advise on precautions and inform property owners when hazards exist.

Now that the Township School Board has decided what to do with its Community Gardens School (see story, this issue), the architect of the school and the landscape engineer will confer about the actual shape of the seven school acres. Then a master plan map of Community Gardens will be drawn, and in the words of Mayor R. Kenneth Fairman, "We'll try to engineer consent with a view to further planning."

Committee had decided to finance the initial stages of Community Gardens planning in the same way it financed the sewer master plan. The enabling ordinance will authorize Committee to borrow $7,500 temporarily on a five-year basis without commitment to any construction plan. This is the retaining fee for Clarke and Rappuana, the landscape engineers. Then, if Committee decides it has the money to go ahead in 1961, the $7,500 can be incorporated into bond financing. If the $7,500 were financed through bond anticipation notes, the Township would be committed to proceed with Community Gardens whether it had the money to do so or not.

Committee forwarded to the Township Planning Board a note om commendation for the Township's part in getting the Borough to put through Prospect Avenue between Cedar Lane and Riverside Drive West. The commendatory paragraph was part of a petition signed by seven Sycamore Road residents asking the Township to erect a 20-mile speed limit on Sycamore to corresmond to the Borough's 20-mile limit sign on Prospect. The problem was referred to Township engineer James Breth and to Township police chief James B. Campbell, Jr.

The Township has been asked to pass a resolution, similar to the Borough's, appointing auxiliary police for civil defense and disaster control. Committee would like to join with the Borough in setting up a group which could function legally in both municipalities so that, in the event of emergency, an auxiliary policeman would not have to stop at the Township line in the course of duty. Township attorney Gordon Griffin will report on the legality of such an arrangement.

IT'S 24 CLASSROOMS

For New School. A 24-classroom, two-story school will be built by the Township Board of Education across Witherspoon Street from Valley Road School. At its meeting on Thursday, the Board authorized Fulmer and Bowers, the school's architects, to prepare preliminary drawings of the school for presentation and approval as soon as possible.

The new school, scheduled for completion in 1962, will house all children in kindergarten through fifth grade now attending Valley Road, and children in the Valley Road neighborhood who are now transported to Littlebrook or Johnson Park. In addition, all sixth grades will be moved to the new school, thereby freeing some classrooms in Littlebrook, Johnson Park and Riverside and giving the Board breathing space before it has to provide additions to the three elementary schools.

The actual site of the new school is now being discussed by the Board, Township Committee, the Board of Recreation Commissioners and the Trustees of Community Gardens. The Board of Education has asked for seven acres facing on Witherspoon Street.

The Board decided not to incorporate administrative space into the new school (present administrative offices are in Stony Brook school which the Board would like to sell) but to erect temporary partitions to make offices out of the older classrooms in Valley Road and to face the need for administrative space at a later date.

Population figures presented by Dr. Purcell, showed that there are 1646 pupils in the Township school system this year, contrasted with 588 ten years ago. The population is expected to increase another 500 by 1965.

After considerable discussion of schools that are now over-crowded (Valley Road) and schools that have inadequate special rooms for libraries, music and art (Littlebrook), the Board heard its fellow-member Richard Pearson say, that next year it would be necessary to face the problem of expanding all four Township schools.

By Community Fund. Slightly more than half of its $234,000 goal has been raised by the United Community Fund, with activity of all divisions under way. The three which began work several weeks ago, Research, Business and Special Gifts, hope to finish their solicitations this week and bring the total to 75 percent.

According to Robert Popino, chairman of the research division, 1294 people have given $23,206.60, with several firms yet to report. In the business division, under the chairmanship of Jack Yeoman, incomplete returns show 913 gifts for a total of $25,407.

Seven teams in the special gifts division, whose chairman is Frank Taplin, report a total of $67,434.20 of the $110,000 quota. Increases of over 15 percent were made in some cases.

Honor Roll Increased. Eleven firms and businesses have been added to the honor roll. Contributions totalling $391 from 38 employees have been received from Columbian Carbon, with Dr. Carl W. Sweitzer and Dr. K. V. Hallum heading the campaign.

Walter J. Paquette, employee chairman, and S. Philip Marcus, manager, report a total of $1579 from 196 employees of Food Machinery and Chemical Corporation. Creative Playthings under Bernard Barenholtz contributed $252. With an average of $22 per employee, Harland Hoisington, Inc. donated a total of $377.

Employees of Princeton Printing Company contributed $143 for an average donation of $16. A total contribution of $200 was reported by Hulit's Shoes. Dr. James B. Rosser, director of the Institute of Defense Analysis, reported seven gifts with total of $500.

With an average gift of $37, Nassau Oil Company's donations came to $385. Princeton Fuel Oil reported $188 for 15 employees. Clyde Deitzler, manager of Public Service, gave a $153 figure for 20 contributors. At the Hun School, Dr. Paul Chesebro reported 35 gifts for a total of $265.

LUNCH PROGRAM ADOPTED

For Boroughs Schools. Princeton Borough Board of Education voted at its meeting last Tuesday night to adopt the National School Lunch Program in all three Borough schools, beginning in September, 1961. The board acted after hearing a report favoring adoption of the program submitted by Chester R. Stroup, superintendent of schools on behalf of the administrative staff.

The action culminates two years of effort on the part of the board and the Borough PTA, during which time a joint board-PTA committee conducted a study of the National School Lunch Program in selected schools. The committee's report was presented to the board at its September meeting and formed the basis for the study and recommendations of the administrative staff.

Citing the study as "an excellent example of cooperation between the PTA and the schools," Graham Rohrer, board president, said that the PTA deserves a great deal of credit for the successful completion of this project.

In other action, the board accepted the resignation of Joseph L. Stark as English teacher at Princeton High School, effective as of October 21, and approved the appointment of John T. Dotti

—DELIGHT SAVINGS

Whether you wait until 2 a.m. Sunday to observe that extra hour, or merely luxuriate by staying abed next morning with the knowledge that you're actually gaining time, those 60 minutes lost in April are scheduled to return. And don't forget to set the clocks back.

The Man hasn't waited for daylight saving's demise to mark the end of warm weather. Thermometer readings below freezing were common during the past week, including three in the high 20's. A warming trend has set in, however, with the possibility of showers Friday and then a clear weekend.

IS THIS 1/3 YOUR LIFE?

Rate Your Mattress

You spend one-third of your life on your mattress. The quality of your sleep vitally affects the enjoyment of the other two thirds of your life. Take a couple of minutes to rate your mattress below. It may give you a clue to the cause of that tired feeling.

	Yes	No
1. LENGTH —is it at least six inches longer than you are?	☐	☐
2. WIDTH — does it give 39 inches per person?	☐	☐
3. AGE — is it less than 10 years old?	☐	☐
4. CONDITION — is it free from sagging borders, lumps, bumps or body slumps?	☐	☐
5. APPEARANCE — is it trim — no sideway, broken stitching, missing handles, rips or tears?	☐	☐
6. BUOYANCY — does it support your weight without letting you sink too far in?	☐	☐
7. RESILIENCE — does it "give" under pressure and spring back when pressure is released?	☐	☐
8. VENTILATION — is it pleasant to sleep on even in very hot weather?	☐	☐
9. INDIVIDUALITY — is it tailored to your sleeping needs: soft, medium, firm or extra firm.	☐	☐
10. COMFORT — do you wake in the morning feeling refreshed?	☐	☐

Give your mattress 10 points for each question answered "yes." This is how your mattress scores:

100% — your mattress passed the test with flying colors!
60 - 90% — you're sleeping well but could do better.
40 - 50% — your mattress needs immediate replacement.
0 - 30% — your mattress is an emergency case.

News Of The THEATRES

"SEAGULL" IS NEXT

At McCarter, A new translation of Chekhov's "The Sea Gull", prepared especially for McCarter Theatre's repertory company, The Association of Producing Artists, will be played by the company on the stage of McCarter this Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights and for a Saturday matinee.

The translation, made by Alex Szogyi, emphasizes the play's contemporary quality and is said to bring into focus the essential comic intent of the author. Szogyi's adaptation of Chekhov's "A Country Scandal" is currently an off-Broadway hit.

The production was given for the first time in May of this year in Bermuda. At that time, Henry Hewes, the Saturday Review critic, said of it, "The effect is shattering."

Rosemary Harris, previously seen at McCarter in "Man and Superman" and "Anatol", returns to the APA company as "Nina." Richard Easton, Dorothy (Dee) Victor, Paul Sparer, Eve Roberts and Donald Moffat will be featured in the Chekhov work. Ellis Rabb, artistic director of APA, is directing "The Sea Gull."

P.E.B. And C-K

All Things to All Men. Between the two of them, the Princeton Entertainment Bureau and C-K Productions (both staffed by C-K, but that's another story), have managed to obtain for Princeton audiences the services of such diverse performers as Fats Domino, Elsa Lanchester and Thomas Scherman's Little Orchestra.

C-K consists of John Craig and Hal A. Kroeger, two undergraduates who are partners in two organizations: C-K and The Princeton Entertainment Bureau. P.E.B. confines its operations to the campus that is, to Dillon Gym or Alexander Hall, under the Bureau of Student Aid, which employs Messrs. Craig and Kroeresidence. C-K productions are usually in McCarter Theatre.

Messrs. Craig and Kroeger will offer, under P.E.B.'s flag, The Kingston Trio on November 5, Thomas Scherman and The Little Orchestra on November 12 and Fats Domino on November 19. On their own C-K escutcheon they will present in McCarter, Elsa Lanchester on November 6, and others still unannounced.

MOSTLY FOAM, SOME BEER

In "The Tavern." A hilarious burlesque of all the "melle-dramers" seen or heard of, the Association of Producing Artists gave George M. Cohan's "The Tavern" full-dress treatment. The fifth offering of the group this fall, the vehicle was beautifully chosen as a change of pace from the more serious fare past and future. The actors obviously enjoyed their task — and the audience did, too.

McCARTER VETERAN: Thayer David, stunningly costumed in a scarlet suit and purple and orange coat, played the part of the Governor in APA's "The Tavern." His performance rang the proper notes of pompousness and humbug in the spoof by George M. Cohan. He has had parts in all five APA productions this fall.

Hugh Hardy opened up his set to include a larger stage area, and thereby made room for a classic chase scene, several good fights and plenty of running up and down stairs. The wind and thunder reverberated through McCarter, and watching the same leaves come through the door each time it was opened was great fun.

Dishes were placed on tables only to be thrown off in fits of temper. In fact, all the cliches of villian and hero, orphan serving girl and Southern belle, dastardly deeds and the ultimate victory of RIGHT were presented in their full glory.

Cast in Good Form. Ellis Rabb, as the Shakespeare-spouting vagabond, was in his element, and it was a treat to hear him deliver a long speech at top speed with every word clear as a bell. The mysterious visitor with no name, he played not the villain (aha) but the hero whose presence at the tavern brings the happy ending. His overly graceful gestures and cavortings completed a meaty part.

The owner of the tavern, snarlingly played by Jack Dodson, terrorized his household in the time-honored melodramatic way, and Mr. Dodson handled the role ably. His son (Tucker Ashworth), the hired girl (Jane Groves) and the hired man (Ralph Drischell) completed the roster of inmates.

Setting the scene took up a rather long first act, but with the arrival of the Governor, his wife and his daughter in the second, the pace quickened. The delightful Southern accents of the trio combined with the country intonations of the tavern residents and the vagabond's impeccable enunciation added another aspect to the spoof. Said the daughter, coyly played by Helen Marie Taylor, to the vagabond, "Yoah jest the quaintest man ah evah met."

The lady of mystery, Patricia Ripley, vied with Jacqueline

Elsa Lanchester in Fine Form at UCLA

A capacity audience greeted Elsa Lanchester at Royce Hall Sunday night for the presentation of her one-woman show and they were well rewarded, for Miss Lanchester was in her usual excellent form and gave a program of hilarious songs, anecdotes and off-beat comedy that unfortunately seemed all too short . . .

Anyone else trying to present any part of her material, drawn from such unlikely sources as Sir Osbert Sitwell, Harold Monro and Euripides, to name a few, would fail miserably, but Miss Lanchester is planning a 34-city tour for the show and audience practically helpless with laughter . . .

Miss Lanchester is planning a 34city tour for the shhow and if the rousing reception accorded here is any indication, it should be a highly successful venture.—FRANK MULCAHY.

Brooks of "Anetole" in playing the tantrum of the season. Tearing around the stage with scissor, Miss Ripley accused first Miss Taylor's fiance, and then the half-witted hired many of causing her ruin. Her long black hair and bare feet combined beautifully with rolling eyes, and fainting fits alternated abruptly with grand passion.

The fiance looked like the villain for awhile, but seconds before the curtain, Keene Curtis appeared as the inevitable "deus-ex machina" and solved the problem in a trice.

Where's the Villain? After the usual number of red herrings had been disposed of, the villain finally showed up as (how did you guess? the sheriff. Edward Grover made his TV counterparts look pretty drab. His moustache was longer and blacker, his gun belt slung lower, and he played a superb death, falling flat on his face center stage after several agonizingly slow pivots.

According to the unusally informative program notes, Cohan's version of "The Tavern," originally billed as a comic tragedy by Cora Dick Ganti, had successful runs in 1920, 1921 and 1930; and the part of the vagebond was Cohan's favorite. Its counterpart today might be "Little Mary Sunshine," giving soap operes a go-around off-Broadway.

"The Tavern" is obvious a vintage piece which deserves e place in any truly comic repertary, and the APA made an inspired choice in selecting it for Princeton audiences who hissed, cheered and laughed with the proper spirit.

AFRICAN FILM DUE

At McCarter Tuesday. "Journey To The Skeleton Coast" is the title of a color film that will be shown at McCarter Theater Tuesday at 8. The work of African explorer, Quenten Keynes, the picture is one of a series of travel films presented under the auspices of the Princeton Kiwanis Club.

To film his story, Mr. Keynes, great-grandson of Charles Darwin traveled 11,000 miles in eight months through some of the wildest country in Africa, almost all pictured for the first time. The film contains many natural history shots and culminates with

Miss Fina's Plans Play

"The Madwoman of Cheillot" by Jean Giraudoux will be presented by the Dramatic Club of Miss Fine's School in the school gymnasium on Friday and Saturday, November 10 and 11. A. Munro Wede will direct the two-act comedy, which he defines as a "satire on the sanity of insanity."

Cynthia Weinrich has been cast in the title role. Other members of the club taking part are Sandra Sidford, Elise Brumi, Carol Armstrong, Barbera Rose, Tucky Ramus, Sonia Bill, Julie Fulper, Deborah Moore, Jean Shaw, Joan Yeeton and Linda Scassera. Undergraduates at Princeton University will fill the male roles.

e climatic fight to the finish between two giant Sable Antelope bulls.

The film begins with the stalking of a white rhino in Zululand and an extraordinary bullfight in Mozambique. Other scenes include diamond mining in the Orange River region; primitive, yellow-skinned aborigines; a visit to the Kraal of a rich headman in Gwanboland and the family headaches of maintaining 15 wives.

THE PLAYHOUSE

Song Without End (October 26-November 1), lavishly produced in CinemaScope and color and filmed largely on location in Europe, is the alleged life story of Franz Liszt, the pianist and composer. As Liszt, Dirk Bogarde acts intelligently and simulates piano playing with great success (the piano on the sound track was played by Jorge Bolet). The film understandably devotes a good deal of its 141 minutes to the music of Liszt; partisans of the composer will find it eminently satisfying, just as swing fans liked "The Benny Goodman Story" despite the trite script and embarrassing performances.

The dramatic segments of "Song Without End" are not as hed es those in "The Benny Goodmen Story"—and here we'll end that particular comparison—but they are exceedingly lachrymose and posy. Perhaps the difficulty lies in the fact that the film is set in 1830. Scriptwriters can never seem to bring themselves to believe that people who wore powdered wigs and talked familiarly about the Congress of Vienna could possibly have had very much recognizable problems or emotions. Bocarde struggles through the various love affairs with great sensitivity and the chief female role is attractively occupied by newcomer who calls herself Capucine. Still, the music is the only real star; the rest is little more than a pretty period piece.

ONLY TWO MORE MONTHS

How Can We Wait! Jaded tots who have gone through their autumn toys like a rum-pot through his bottle may need to be sustained between now and the time ole S.C. comes down the chimney. Stuff n Nonesense is well-equipped to do the sustaining, and we suggest a quick trip to 10 Moore before pre-Christmas neuroses set in.

Fall painting time is still here, and junior gardeners may be interested in some plastic flowers which you plant by the peg-board method: stick 'em in a hole. Each plant is about an inch tall, depending of course on whether it's a crocus or a sunflower, and because the sets were made in England where gardeners are not flippant about their calling, each flower is authentic to the last stamen. Crocuses are about ¾ inch tall, tulips hyacinths, lupines and so on, are in proportion.

With the flowers and the brick-edged pegboards which are their beds, you get a piece of grass flocking about six by eight inches, some stone terraces and raised planters. For a doll-house that's just been built and is still surrounded by mud and debris the way new houses often are, there couldn't be a better solution to the landscaping problem.

Pegboards appear again in the newest Tinkertoys. Combined with the classic spindles and punched wooden wheeles, they make roofed carriages, wagons with sides, and so on. A set is $5.

Something new has also been added to the Girder and Bridge set and the Turnpike Set. Each one now has a motor, so that bridges can be raised or lowered, and elevators go up and down. A tremendous advance toward a solution of the transportation bottleneck.

Smaller engineers — say, 18 months or so — may begin their apprenticeship by working on a Busy Box, which is a plastic board that holds a wheel you can spin, a dial you can telephone with, a windmill that turns when you grind the handle, a button that squeaks when you push it, a little car that goes across the board on a trolley, a drawer that pulls, one door that opens to reveal — guess who! (It's a mirror), another that opens to a picture.

A most appealing baby doll, three months old, 18 inches long, has a kapok-stuffed body, soft plastic limbs and head and such artfully loose joints that she flops into life-like positions no matter how you toss her around. She has a little squnched up face like a human baby's and a mewing cry.

Who's Your Candy Date?

A foot-long, one-inch thick stick of peppermint candy proclaims to the world your political affiliations.

It's the kind of candy cane they sell at English sea-side resorts—in fact, this one was made in England—with letters printed on the end of the cane and embedded in some fascinating way the whole length of the stick so that they are just as visible when you reach the last nne-inch nubbin as they were before you took your first lick.

This stick, at the Gourmet, says "DEMOCRAT" or "REPUBLICAN" in eighth-inch high letters around the circle at the end. Gourmet is planning its own private poll, based on how many people buy which stick. Cost 35c.

At the moment, she is wearing a white knit shirt, snakers and a pink flannel robe. With her, at Stuff 'n Nonsense, is a grey wicker doll carriage, rather unusual in these days of plastic and chrome.

Effenbee's baby is 12 inches long and a bit older, with rooted blonde hair and a closed fist, which is easier to push through a doll sleeve that spread fingers would be. They think of everything, these toy-makers.

In where the stuffed things are, we found P. J. Peter, the Pajama Eater, made of dazzling green nylon pile sewn into a circle (that's his head), with red felt ears, orange felt hair and crossed eyes. His red grin zips across and lo, pajamas go inside. He eats them — bottoms up, so to speak.

A gentler soul is the lion with long, soft tail and alluring eyes. He incorporates pajamas into his digestive tract also.

"Beulah" is a white poodle with lampshade fringe for mane and hair. Another poodle, with blue eyes, has silvery grey hair and an undoubted pedigree.

mind, but women who only think they are young girls, may also take advantage of these prices. BLACK, BUT COMELY

Ebony Is In. Practically everything we saw on a recent tour of Palmer Square's Silver Shop, was ebony, at least in part, and trend-spotters are welcome to move in.

(Actually, of course, our headline should read "Black But Comly" because Mr. Comly owns the Silver Shop, but the silver content of the pun doesn't assay high enough, so we'll let it go.)

First, there is a small intricately carved Chinese ebony table with a pink marble top laid into the dark wood. It's about 16 inches across, with ball and claw feet and a Victorian past.

Second, there is a serene little Swedish box of maple veneer on oak inlaid with a small ebony shield and a fine ebony line underscoring the edges of the box. Inside there is a tray with four compartments. The whole box is about nine by five inches.

Third, the Silver Shop has a small, delightfully feminine coffee service whose ebony-handled pot must hold all of five demitasses. The handle describes three sides of a rectangle and the long side is the ebony one you hold. The pot is sterling. There are a creamer and sugar and a small plain tray, and any of these may be bought separately.

A Dutch silversmith with a twinkle in his eye made a cow creamer about 100 years ago, and the cow is now at the Silver Shop, ferns still entwined in her horns, a latent bee with folded wings still on her back. She's about six inches long, curved tail to horn tip.

If you need a pair of claret jugs, either for claret or for filling up sideboard space, The Silver Shop has a pair in cut glass, Waterford panels alternating with star-cut panels, a silver spout and lid, and a slender silver chain guard and handle.

William Bateman produced, around 1820, two sterling waiters with cadmon borders and a low tripod of claws or floral wreaths, or something. They are solid silver, of course, about nine inches in diameter and quite impressive if you collect Georgian silver.

Fall's the time to buy the six H. Alken hunting prints, stoutly matted and framed in a Hogarth frame. The set, "Force's Hunting Accomplishments," depicts the obstacles met and surmounted by Brother Fores in the course of a day in the field. Each framed print is about 16 by 20 inches, and the six of them would take care of a whole den wall. $75 for the set.

To provide for yourself, after you've provided so handsomely for the den of the family, buy a Mandarin coat in navy silk satin embroidered lavishly but not ostentatiously with pale rose, pale green and ivory and finished off with deep ivory cuffs and an ivory lining. You might also pick up a "chicken-skin" fan with Watteau-like figures above ivory ribs inlaid with silver. Ask The Silver Shop what chicken skin is.

The Playhouse will usher in Halloween Friday night with a twin-barrelled horror show featuring "Circus of Horrors," a color film starring Anton Diffring, Erika Remberg and Yvonne Monlaur, and something called "Bucket of Blood." "Circus of Horrors," a cut above the ordinary in acting and production, is an example of the new type of horror film in which lightly-clad young ladies vie with the resident monsters for your attention.

Inherit the Wind (November 2-8) is a fine film version of the Broadway play based on the 1925 Scopes "monkey trial." The slightly fictionalized story stars Spencer Tracy as Henry Drummond-Clarence Darrow, Fredric March as Matthew Harrison Brady-William Jennings Bryan, and Gene Kelly as E. K. Hornbeck-H. L. Mencken. All three perform with rare insight and complete authority.

The plot, taken directly from the historical incidents, involves a young Tennessee schoolteacher who is brought to trial for teaching Darwinian evolution despite a state law prohibiting the teaching of scientific theories which conflict with a literal interpretation of the Bible. But the real drama has nothing to do with the verdict: no one denies that Scopes (here called Bertram T. Cates and played by Dick York) has violated the law. The stars are the lawyers—Drummond-Darrow, who argues that the church has no right to control what is taught in public classrooms; Brady-Bryan, who pleads for the supremacy of the Bible. The debate was a high point in American oratory when it occurred, and it makes crackerjack courtroom drama on the screen. There's a little unfortunate symbolism with books at the very end, but this is a minor flaw in a gripping and intelligent picture. Recommended.

THE GARDEN

The Captain's Table (October 24-29) is a frequently funny British color comedy dealing with the difficulties of an experienced freighter captain who is commanding a passenger vessel for the first time. His difficulties are twofold: he is unsettled in a Jimmy Stewart-ish way, by the attentions of his female passengers, and his crew has developed the practice of stealing supplies from the ship into a high art. In addition there are problems with an officious stockholder of the steamship company and a first officer who sees all too well the advantages of a situation where the girls outnumber the boys.

The stars of the Rank Organization effort are John Gregson, Peggy Cummins, Donald Sinden, Nadia Gray and Maurice Denham, all of whom are British: this is a description, not an evaluation. While it's true that the film might have been more effective if the Jimmy Stewart-ish role were played by Jimmy Stewart it is entertaining and worth an evening's time, especially in view of the rest of the program, described below.

Playing with "The Captain's Table" is a seven-minute cartoon called "The Violinist," featuring the voices of Carl Reiner. Winner of first prize at the 1960 Edinburgh Film Festival, this is unreservedly the funniest and most perfectly produced cartoon we have ever seen. The drawing is done in an uncluttered, colorful style reminiscent of the best work of UPA, and Reiner, a standby on the late, lamented Sid Caesar television show, handles the dialogue with comic artistry. There have been very few motion pictures of any sort in the past few years that we would urge you as strongly not to miss as this unpretentious cartoon. If there's any justice at all, it will win next year's Academy Award.

La Traviata (October 31) is the first of seven films of great operas the Garden will feature on successive Mondays. The Verdi music is sung in English, with Nelly Corradi and Gino Mattera in leading roles.

The Big Chief (November 1-5) is run-of-the-mill Fernandel: that is to say, funny if sometimes silly stuff. The Gallic comic, who manages to be charming, arch and poignant with one of the world's least promising faces, is cast as a bumbling kidnaper who runs off with a wealthy young Dennis the Menace. The brat makes a shambles of his intricate road to riches and when Fernandel and his partner decide to send him home, they learn that his parents will want a great deal of money to take him back.

It's all based on an O. Henry story, "The Ransom of Red Chief," amiable and engaging. French dialogue, English titles.

VAUDEVILLE RETURNS

With "Drop of a Hat." An old-fashioned revue with plenty of obvious laughs, "At the Drop of a Hat" played to a near-capacity crowd at McCarter Tuesday night, and held the audience with them through a stream of delightfully inconsequential material.

With Michael Flanders, a devilishly bearded gentlemen, and Donald Swann, a fey piano player, the good old days of un-sick and un-self-conscious comics seemed to have returned. Not only the English vaudeville stage, but the years of elementary radio comedy came back to life.

There were Puns: on canal crises, "I'm dreaming of a wide isthmus;" on method acting, "stuffed like a Strasberg goose." There were Topical Jokes galore: "the cigarette with the recessed detonator" for those who wish to stop smoking, and "that imaginary country, Red China."

Hoping to become a household word (like slop bucket), these ineffable Britishers (Englishmen?) invaded the royalist stronghold of Prince-town with a series of songs and patter that would have failed completely in less capable hands. The disarming qualities of understatement and underplaying made the difference.

Mr. Flanders, the lyricist of the pair, carried the jokes and the songs (more said than sung in some cases), while Mr. Swann's light tenor voice, nimble fingers and sly muggings provided the balance. In an Elvis Presley-type duet, an encore, the pair gave an hilarious rendition of the line, "Smoking is permitted in the auditorium." Imagination came through in almost every number.

"The wisdom of winter is madness in May," went a line sung by Mr. Swann. "At the Drop of a Hat" combined wisdom and madness in a delightful mixture.

PLANNING STRESSED

By Democrats And GOP's

Present zoning laws came under fire from Republican candidates for Borough Council this week. Albert A. Austen and Elwood W. Godfrey called voters' attention to problems and lacks in this area.

"In their effect, our present zoning laws foster a continuation of cramped inadequate business buildings where there is a need for new efficient rental space for existing and new enterprises," the candidates declared. "Potential tax revenues are being lost because of restrictions on new construction while property owners are unable to realize the true value of their holdings," said Dr. Godfrey, "and it is possible to remodel existing antiquated structures, but not to demolish them and replace them with new, structurally sound efficient buildings with the same floor space."

Dr. Austen commented, "Zoning, coupled with planning and parking, are areas of our government which require continuing reappraisal because of our Community's growth. Demands for housing in the Borough grow annually and increasing numbers of our community are forced to seek housing outside. It is again time for the Borough to review its long-standing opposition to garden apartments."

"WE NEED EACH OTHER."

Reiterating their theme of total community participation in Borough affairs, Democratic candidates, Robert van de Velde and Gordon Waldron pointed to the progress made by Mayor Male in reviving interest in the workings of local government.

Mr. van de Velde stated, "Government can only be representative of the whole community if the citizens participating in it represent the whole community. Almost every neighborhood has someone with experience and skills that could be valuable to Borough government."

In discussing Mayor Male's contributions, Mr. Waldron commented, "He has let people see how government works. He was the first to publish advance agendas, write regular reports, and make himself available to each and every citizen of Princeton. Most important, he has appointed citizens from all sections to Princeton to posts in local government." Mr. Waldron stated that he and Mr. van de Velde, if elected, would encourage increased participation in government.

In discussing the relationship of the University to the Borough, Mr. van de Velde declared, "We need each other. This town cannot afford to divide itself or its citizens according to any limiting lable. Princeton University, Borough government, and all citizens of the community must work together if we are to escape the destructive effects of expansion."

Administrator Plan Needed. Underscoring the planning problem in another aspect, Township Democratic candidates, Richard Frost and Simeon Moss advocate "the needed and rather easy changeover to a genuine Administrator Plan for the Township government."

In amplifying their position, the candidates stated, "Under the state law, the shift to 'Plan E' alters nothing except that it gives undisputed and clear authority for the Committee to appoint a trained manager who would then have the full responsibility for administering policies laid down by the Committee."

They continued, "One is tempted to support the somewhat ill thought out plan of the current Committee to name its Clerk as Administrator. This is not the answer. Elements of responsibility, given the Clerk from time to time, or withdrawn from time to time, will not give us the clean-cut tools we need.

"We ask the Committee to produce on its platform promise of last year to get going on the needed revamping of its administrative muddle. Only leadership from the Committee, leadership which we promise to provide if elected, can put us up-to-date with the serious, technical problems which surround us."

GOP Lists Achievements. Again stressing the importance of planning and Republican accomplishments in the area, Township candidates Kenneth Fairman and Maurice F. Healy Jr. pledged the completion and adoption of the Master Plan in the coming year. They pointed out Township Committee was reorganized at the beginning of the year to create a separate department for planning and zoning.

Mr. Fairman and Mr. Healy listed the accomplishment of the following major steps: the completion of the sewer master plan and the beginning of sewer construction, the development of the sidewalk master plan to begin at the end of the school year, and the adoption of a zoning amendment to permit light industry in the Township.

Also included were the organization of a development committee to attract new ratables, the completion of the multiple housing survey, the improvement of inspection procedures under the building code, and the completion of recommendations on streets and roads.

listed as satisfactory.

Driver of the car was Mario Nini, 29, of 17 Henry Avenue, Borough Patrolman Richard Pancaro, who was on duty at the school at 3:30 p.m. when the accident occurred, said that young Stout was riding the wrong way out of a one-way driveway. Mr. Nini, who was proceeding west on Houghton Road, will not have any charges placed against him, police said.

ELEVEN FINED

In Traffic Court. Twenty-five traffic cases, an unusually high number, were scheduled for hearing before Magistrate Theodore T. Tams Jr. in Monday's session of traffic court. Of this number, two were dismissed and eight defendants, most of them out of town residents, failed to appear.

Among area residents fined for violations were Miss Heather Houghton, 17, of 806 Kingston Road, $30, for leaving the scene of an accident. Magistrate Tams also revoked Miss Houghton's license for 30 days.

Mrs. Lee I. Selden, 23, of 2858 Main Street, Lawrenceville, and Frank H. Johnson, 52, of 980 Lake Drive were each fined $15 on an overdue inspection charge. Richard S. Giske, 18, of Bunker Hill Road, paid two fines, $10 for no taillight and $15 for passing in a no-passing zone.

Other fines include: Robert Fowler, 21 of 290 Witherspoon Street, $25, unlicensed driver; Mrs. J.O. Starr, 26, 228-C Halsey Street, $10, crossing a white line; and David A. Fankhauser, 23, of 77 Moore Street, $20, speeding. Kenneth Edwards of 414 Butler Avenue, was fined $23 for not paying for four parking tickets he had accumulated.

Two pedestrians were also fined. Ehhu I. Leifer, 20, of Hamilton Hall, pleaded not guilty to a charge of jaywalking and Magistrate Tams, while suspending any fine, ordered Leifer to pay $5 court costs. Another University student, Michael L. Hersey, 22, of 1903 Holl, was fined $15 for obstructing the passage of traffic as a pedestrian. He had held up his hand to halt a line of cars on Nassau Street to permit his date and himself to cross the street.

FOSTER NAMED HEAD

Of Development Committee. LeBaron R. Foster has been named chairman of the Princeton Township Development Committee which will explore ways in which light industries can be induced to make their homes in Princeton Township.

At the Committee's first meeting, members saw a film devoted to methods of approaching industries, and heard Mayor R. Kenneth Fairman speak on present zoning laws, sewer problems and the water supply situation.

Committee members will now collect as much information about the Township as possible in order to have answers to such questions as "How many acres are actually zoned for light industry?" "how much can the Township expand," and so on.

Sub-committees appointed by the parent Development Committee will work with the Mercer County Industrial Development Commission, with Public Service, which has an industrial development program of its own, and with the Greater Princeton Chamber of Commerce in drawing up plans for attracting desirable ratepbles to the Township.

VOTE "YES" ON LIBRARY

Citizens Urge Vote. The mayors of both municipalities, the Junior Chamber of Commerce, the librarian of Princeton University and several private citizens expressed this week their hope that Princeton would vote "yes" on the referendum to establish a joint Borough-Township library.

The referendum calls for a board of trustees consisting of the mayor and superintendent of schools of each municipality and three citizens appointed by each mayor. The Township would pay $2,500 a year to the borough for five years, a total of $12,500.

"Taxpayers in the Borough as well as in the Township stand to gain from joint operation of the public library," said Borough Mayor Raymond F. Male. "Neither Borough nor Township can support a public library alone, and those of us who have studied the facts agree that the operation of the library and the planning of its future can best be done under joint auspices."

Urging Township voters to vote "yes," Mayor R. Kenneth Fairman pointed out that membership in a joint library would enable the Township to withdraw from the Mercer County library system with a resulting saving in tax payments. (In 1960, the Township paid the county $15,611 for the use of the county facilities.)

"It is as unthinkable for this unique community to permit its public library services to remain second-class as it would be for it to tolerate a second-class public school system," stated William Dix of the University's Firestone Library. "Princeton must move immediately toward the improvement of its public library services and a first step is placing of its library on a sound business basis by the establishing of a jointly-owned Borough Township library."

The Princeton Junior Chamber of Commerce said that passage of the referendum will make both Borough and Township residents feel that the library facilities do in fact belong to both municipalities. "Only by officially uniting our efforts can the people of Princeton hope to work out a practical method of providing better public library facilities," the Chamber stated.

Referendum support has also come from James A. Perkins, who backs the issue on the basis of improved services, increased return on the dollar and promotion of an important community project, and Lee H. CAR WASH DENIED

By Township Zoning Board. After hearing the strong protests of neighbors and a representative from the Township schools, the Township Zoning Board on Thursday night denied a request to operate an auto laundry at 300 Witherspoon Street.

The request was made by Princeton Cleaning and Floor Waxing, which had hoped to establish its new service in the building now occupied by the Shelton Motor Company, Inc, after Shelton moves to new quarters on Route 206.

Dr. John McKenna, assistant superintendent of Township Schools, pointed out that the Township will build a new school on the Community Gardens plot adjoining the proposed car-wash. He said that the automobile traffic occasioned by the auto laundry would be hazardous for school children. He also reminded the Board that the Community Gardens site will be used for community-wide recreation programs and that such use is incompatible with the traffic that comes to an auto laundry.

Several residents of the area, including Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Sinkler, 307 Witherspoon, objected to the laundry on the grounds that it would tie up traffic, add to the parking problem and present a hazard to adult pedestrians, as well as to school children.

The Zoning Board granted to Leonard LaPlaca, owner of Nassau Interiors, permission to hold a furniture sale at the mill he uses for storage purposes on Princeton - Kingston Road near the Millstone bridge. Two property owners told the Board they had no objection to the sale, providing no precedent was set. Mr. LaPlaca may hold his sale from November 7 through 12, and must obtain police help if his sale creates a traffic problem.

Prefers Evergreens to Asphalt.

To The Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

Everybody knows Bank Street. Visitors to Princeton often remark on the unusual combination of typically American houses, with their wooden porches, set in orderly rows reminiscent of European towns. And the owners and tenants of the houses have made a successful effort to keep up the turn-of-the-century appearance of the street.

Now, in the apparently sacred name of "off-street parking," one of the street's most pleasant amenities, a row of some six or eight evergreen trees, has been destroyed. In this case, the parking lot already existed and has not been appreciably enlarged by cutting down the trees, which were in a row along one end of it.

The purpose of the "improvement" is merely to black-top what had been a gravel surface. So for the sake of a few square yards of asphalt, the trees had to go.

No doubt the officers of the responsible institution (after which, incidentally, the street is named) often speak, as our business men will, of the unusual attractiveness of ...nceton. Their neighbors on Bank Street are not likely to forget the gracefulness of the evergreens when contemplating how the black-top sets off the institution's bare, red-brick rear end.

Her Study Favors Democrats.

To The Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

As a newcomer to Princeton, I was interested to read about the Nixon-Lodge "Phone-a-Thon" in Princeton last weekend. I was particularly impressed with Mr. William Sword's statement "...an objective study of the facts shows that Nixon and Lodge are the best qualified candidates."

Experience and qualifications are most certainly the measures by which we should judge candidates — and I would like to urge Messrs. Sword, Lee, Paynter, Augustine, Lasley, et al to use these same criteria at the local level. As a new resident, I am greatly interested in the local campaigns and have taken the time and effort to examine the experience and backgrounds of all the candidates for Borough Council and Township Committee. In my opinion "an objective study of the facts" reveals that the Democratic slate is the best qualified for office locally.

I, too, urge all voters — irrespective of party — to study the candidates and vote for the ones who will give us the most enlightened government.

"Poor Politics" Charged.

To The Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

Mr. Richard Colman, in his letter last week (TOWN TOPICS, Oct. 23) on why he supports the Democratic candidates for Borough Council, gives as his final reason, "It has been a constructive and positive campaign. I have never heard or read of either of these men downgrading the opposition."

This can certainly not be said of Mr. Frost and Mr. Moss, Democratic candidates for Township Committee, or Mr. William Marvel, their spokesman. They find the opposition guilty of "grandstand plays, campaign stunts, government by publicity, complacency, and blinking responsibilities," to mention a few allegations.

I, for one, am incensed by their disparaging rhetoric and, to quote them once more, find it "poor politics."

Dogs Deserve Freedom.

To The Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

A little letter in praise of the free, happy dogs of Princeton. These gay, friendly animals add a quality to this town that is unique. Some, of course, get run over, but they have had happy lives.

If a dog bites or is a fighter, of course he must be shut up or destroyed, but please don't let us put our happy friends inside a stockade because of some delinquent individual.

The public must be protected against evil doers, canine or human, but let's keep as much freedom and happiness as is consistent with safety.

PRINCETON TOWNSHIP VOTERS:

An Incumbent Administration

Must Run On Its Record!

DID YOU KNOW?

1. that PRETTY BROOK ROAD in the sparsely-populated northern section of town is to be straightened and paved AT FULL EXPENSE TO ALL TOWNSHIP TAXPAYERS? But last year, the Township Committee told its Board of Improvement Assessors to determine how much EACH SYACAMORE RD. PROPERTY OWNER MUST PAY for the installation of that road which was clearly an artery for the benefit of the whole of Princeton and not for a few large property-owners.

2. that Princeton Township over-assesed the Shopping Center by so much that we now owe this property a $55,000 tax refund, plus over $7,200 in interest, for a total of almost $65,000?

3. that the same Township Committeeman who now criticizes our sense of urgency about needed facilities for our young people said in his own campaign for office that we would not need recreational facilities here for 2,000 years?

4. that most of the "accomplishments" or matters "under way" now claimed by our opponents were ideas and programs proposed by Township Democrats in the last 4 or 5 years, and that any honest survey of the record will show this?

An OPEN LETTER
CITIZENS OF
Princeton Borough

The current political campaign will soon be over. On November 8th we will cast our votes for the men that we feel are best qualified to hold public office.

Two men that have served Princeton long and well are not seeking re-election this year. Richard W. Colman and Richard A. Lester have worked hard to help give Princeton the local government it deserves.

If we are to continue to preserve what is good and prevent what is destructive as Princeton moves into the Sixties, we must replace Dick Colman and Dick Lester with men of equal ability and dedication.

ROBERT VAN DE VELDE and GORDON WALDRON are the Democratic candidates for Borough Council. I want to express my confidence in the ability of these men to maintain Princeton's heritage for ALL the people.

Bob and Gordon recognize the obligation to preserve the beauty and charm of our town. They are determined to foster and extend cooperation between the Borough and Township. They are committed to the continuance of open government and citizen participation.

I would be proud to have BOB VAN DE VELDE and GORDON WALDRON join with me in giving Princeton the kind of government it has a right to expect from its elected officials

Sincerely,
Raymond F. Male

amounting to $14,000 in return for circulating 16,000 books.

In 1960 this tax was $15,000, increasing hy 50 percent the total Township for library services. This $15,000 is not charged on the basis of use by the 400 Township bookmobile users but on the assessed valuation of all Princeton Township property. Surely this sum could give more return, in the form of bookmobile service if found desirable, if all library services were the responsibility of a Joint Borough - Township Library.

PATRICIA CHERRY
(Mrs. William H. Cherry)
24 Dempsey Avenue

To The Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

On the coming Election Day, the voters of Borough and Township will find on the ballot the proposal for a Borough-Township Public Library, a Library supported by the municipalities. It is to be hoped that the proposal will receive a heavy affirmative vote.

A joint library will be a direct advantage. The Borough will profit by the increased support of Township citizens because the Township will not have to make a contribution to the Library, as it now does and at the same time pay, as it now does, the Mercer County Library system.

It is important for us to know that a vote for the Joint Library Referendum does not necessarily mean the construction of a new building at this time. If a new building is eventually needed, it will have to come in the future and after joint planning by Borough and Township.

Furthermore, the Library referendum is by no means to be construed as advocating political consolidation of Borough and Township. There are, as we know, two opinions on such a step. A common library will only "consolidate" books, not people.

The "Information for Voters" pamphlet distributed by the Borough Library stresses the importance of joint-control to the public schools of both Borough and Township. The school libraries are inadequate to give their users the depth of material that a public library affords.

I have just been pointing out the need on the part of the public schools for a central library. But the public schools are not by any means the only schools that are doing a good job in Princeton. The parochial schools taught by the efficient and devoted nuns; Miss Chapin's; the Country Day School, whose standards have always been high; Miss Fine's School, one of the best preparatory schools in the country, whose graduates are snapped up by collegiate boards of admission, could all benefit from a joint library.

Indeed the scholars of all the institutions just mentioned have as much to gain as the public school children from such a library. Their right to its use is legally no less than the right of the public school children. It is very much to be hoped that their parents will recognize this obligation to their own families and will vote for the resolution for a joint Borough-Township library on Election Day.

"I Am Impressed"

At an "International Breakfast" held Sunday at the YM-YWCA for visiting UN guests, Raghib Malyall, Deputy Ambassador from Cypress, gave an unexpected and spontaneous speech:

"If I had left the United States this week without first visiting Princeton, I would have had a very negative impression of your country," he said. "But now I know that Americans are friendly, warm and hospitable. I am especially impressed by the people of Princeton who on their own and without assistance from the government, are enlightening themselves about the UN and honoring it during its 15th anniversary."

Twelve Princeton families played host to UN visitors during the week. They are Mr. and Mrs. Leonard J. Rahilley, Mrs. Elly Van Aalten, Albert Sonnenfeld, Mrs. Dennis Flanagan, A. B. ElKoreh, Mr. and Mrs. John Reid, Dr. and Mrs. Henry dew. Smyth, Glen R. Simmons, Mr. and Mrs. William Scheide, Mrs. Rose H. Mintz, Mr. and Mrs. Louis G. Michel and Mrs Henry Abrams.

FEET ON THE GROUND, EAR IN THE SKIES: Young Kip Goff of Pennington recently passed his examination for radio operator's license, and the 12-year-old ham is now coaching his father so that Daddy can be a ham, too. "But my father's too spasmodic," says Kip. "Unless he starts buckling down with real work, he's not going to pass his novice test. I guess he has too much else to do." (Staff Photo)

Topics Of The Town

HAM: YOUNG AND TENDER

12-Year-Old Wins License. I've been interested in radio since I was about 9," reminisced Kit Goff recently, "but I got interested in other things, too, and never really did anything with it—probably because I was young."

However, the elderly Mr. Goff, who will be 13 in January, never really lost his interest in radio during those long years from 9 to 12. This fall, he passed the examination for a radio operator's general license. He has been assigned the call letters WA2IAD.

Kit is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald H. Goff, 29 East Welling Avenue, Pennington. He is in the seventh grade at Pennington Junior School.

Kit obtained his novice license when he was 11, under the tutelage of his grandfather who first sparked Kip's interest in being a radio operator. Under the Federal Communication Commission rules, a licensed ham can legally administer the novice test, and it was Kit's grandfather who tested him. The novice license is good for only a year and is not renewable.

To obtain his general license, Kit went to Philadelphia and, with about 15 other aspirants, most of whom had a considerable lead over him in age, took the required test.

In order to pass, he had to take 65 letters a minute in the code test, answer such questions as "What are the disadvantages and advantages of mercury vapor rectifiers as opposed to high vacuum tube rectifiers?", and draw a schematic diagram of a half-wave amplifier.

We had to answer 40 questions," Kit says, "but I had to learn the answers to 106, because you don't know which ones will be chosen. They've got a new multiple choice system now —my paper was the very first one to be graded with this new system, and it was pretty funny, actually, because they found when they graded by paper, that their answer key was wrong."

"Anyhow, they used to make you do all those schematic drawings yourself, but now they just give you the drawings and ask you what they are. I like those multiple-choice questions: they sure are easier than working things out yourself."

Wave length: 80 Meters. Kip's ham equipment is lined up neatly on a big corner desk in his bedroom. He has a Hallicrafters SX-99 receiver and an "old" (the adjective is Kip's) Heathkit AT-1 transmitter which his grandfather lent him as a standby until the young ham can get a Viking "Adventurer" or can built a transmitter from a kit.

"I'm on 80 meters, which is the next to shortest band," Kip explains," and I've gone as far as I can go on 80 meters: Virginia, Massachusetts, Connecticut, and without talking to them, Mexico, Canada and just about all over the United States."

Kip loves science, but isn't quite sure where to concentrate: chemistry, geology, anthropolgy, archaeology, microbiology?

"I've got this good book on anthropology, but it's just not specific or accurate enough for the kind of information I want," he says. "Maybe what I need is a college text."

He is especially excited about the "new" math, that developed from the Yale studies in mathematics curricular, and is being taught in Pennington seventh grades as it is in Princeton's "I just love that stuff!" Kip exclaims. "It sure has a lot more to it than the old math ever did."

For recreation, Kip goes surf-fishing with his father, plays basketball, swims and plays the piano. His ham license is good for five years, and this time, he doesn't think he'll lose interest because he's too young.

Why I Plan to Vote

REPUBLICAN

By Arthur M. Sherwood

The great issue of the day for America — and the free world — is whether we can meet successfully the challenge of the Soviet Union. This is not idle political rhetoric; it is a cruel and inescapable fact. If our defense posture becomes weak, the Soviets will destroy us without warning and without mercy. If our economic strength is impaired, the Soviet victory will be equally inevitable.

It stands to reason, therefore, that the preservation and strengthening of our industrial society is the key to survival. Which party is better equipped for this task? I believe that the facts indicate clearly that the Republican Party and its candidate, Vice-President Nixon, have the means to do the job.

Over the past 150 years, we have developed from a small agricultural country into the greatest industrial power in the world. The key to that development has been the free enterprise system, under which each businessman, large or small, has been free to run his business as he saw fit, subject only to the limitations wisely imposed by the anti-trust laws.

Competition has determined who would succeed and who fail, and in so doing has continually lowered the cost, measured in constant dollars, while improving the quality of the product. The Republican Party stands pledged to preserve and protect the free enterprise system, by constantly striving to minimize government interference with business, by maintaining a balanced budget and thus controlling inflation, our greatest internal enemy, and by reducing the crushing burden of taxation wherever possible without impairing our military posture.

Where does the Democratic Party stand? It offers a tired re-tread of the New Deal and Fair Deal programs.

It promises greater governmental interference in all phases of our life. Its philosophy is apparently based on the premise that free men are incapable of guiding their own destiny.

Professor Kenneth Galbraith, Senator Kennedy's principal economic advisor, espoused the theory that government must take a far larger share of the national wealth and determine how it shall be spent, largely for socialistic schemes purporting to provide complete security for the individual. This is the equivalent of saying that the individual cannot be trusted to spend his own money wisely, and that therefore a group of do-gooders in Washington must do it for him.

This doctrine is not only fallacious; it is a cruel hoax upon the less-educated segments of the population. No government can provide total security for its citizens. Free men, untrammeled by government interference, can and must provide for their own security.

It is difficult to believe that Senator Kennedy is really convinced that the vast spending programs which he advances could be accomplished without tremendous budgetary deficits, inflation, and consequent crippling of the economic health of the country. If our goal is to hand America to the Soviets on a silver platter, Senator Kennedy's program is an excellent way to attain it.

In the person of Vice-President Nixon the country is offered an able and experienced public servant, and one moreover who has demonstrated his inner toughness dealing with the Soviets. The program on which he stands is dedicated to strengthening our country be preserving and protecting the free enterprise system. Under the Republicans, we can be confident that our economy will continue to grow, that the needs of our citizens will be met, and that our country will remain strong and, most important of all, free.

DEMOCRATIC

By Catherine L. Mc Grath

I plan to vote Democratic, because I believe that the Republican Administration has failed to meet effectively the challenges of the past eight years. No amount of "positive thinking" will alter the fact that American power and prestige have slipped badly under Republican stewardship.

Yet criticism that all is not well is not met with bolder and more imaginative ideas but rather bolder and more imaginative slogans. In addition, the patriotism of those calling attention to the true state of affairs is questioned.

Our government's single-minded devotion to a balanced budget has allowed our military might to decline to a dangerous point and caused us to fall behind in the race for space.

Domestically, the Republican Party has failed to come to grips realistically with the great problems in the fields of education, medical care for the aged and the transportation problems strangling our cities. It is not enough to mouth pious phrases about the "American Way" and "States Rights."

It is time to face the fact that to pass the responsibility for filling the public needs back to the states is unrealistic. A great many of our states are unwilling or unable to take the responsibility for a good education for all their citizens and an adequate health program for the elderly.

If any of the 50 states fail to provide a good education for its citizens, we as a nation are the loser. If we demand that our elderly must be paupers in order to get assistance with their staggering medical costs, we make a mockery of our claims to being the wealthiest and most prosperous country in the world.

I believe that the Democratic Party has nominated a man who has the capacity and the will to stir us out of our lethargy and re-awaken in us a sense of public and international responsibility. John F. Kennedy possesses a keen intellect and can approach the problems of the country in a cool and unemotional way.

He has not hesitated to spell out publicly our shortcomings as a nation, although it might be easier to do as Mr. Nixon does and declare that our prestige and power are at an all-time high. But he has faith in the American people, faith in their capacity to face the facts, unpleasant though they may be. He can successfully demand from us the sacrifices necessary for us to return to our role of unqualified world leadership.

In his 14 years in the Congress, Senator Kennedy has gained experience in the conduct of our foreign relations. He has traveled extensively to meet with government, business and labor leaders in 20 nations.

He has repeatedly spoken out against the Republican Administration's policy of supporting out-worn remnants of colonialism. He has been a leader in efforts to achieve an effective program of Arms Control and a nuclear test ban with inspection.

At home, he has consistently supported measures that demonstrate an awareness of the public need — increased aid to education, a realistic medical bill for the elderly, a broadening of social security.

He is pledged to enact the strong Civil Rights plank adopted at the Democratic National Convention. He will be willing to throw the full weight and prestige of his office behind the enforcement of the existing Civil Rights laws and press for new legislation in the areas where it is needed.

In contrast to Mr. Kennedy, the chameleon-like Mr. Nixon demands nothing of us. He simply tells us all is well. But his political career has been characterized by the expedient.

He was first elected to Congress after one of the most unsavory of political campaigns. He rode the wave of McCarthyism when it was popular and successfully used the communist-name-calling technique in his campaigns of 1952 and 1956.

Only now, has he assumed the cloak of the respectable statesman. His mantle doesn't fit well. Even now, he suggests that to question our might and prestige is to play into the hands of the Communists.

The old Nixon still shows through occasionally. So many Democrats remember with bitterness his attacks on their patriotism, that it is doubtful that if he is elected we can have anything more than government by stalemate.

On his much publicized claim to greater experience and the ability to "stand up to Khrushchev", the point has been made that the ability to shake his finger under Mr. Khrushchev's nose will not win our ideological war with the Soviets. And Mr. Eisenhower unwittingly refuted his Vice-President's claim to participation in the important decisions of the government when he was asked to specify some decisions that Mr. Nixon had taken part in. He replied, "If you give me a week, I might think of some."

It is hard to know exactly where Richard Nixon stands politically. His voting record has been a negative one—against any social legislation in the liberal tradition. Yet he has espoused the liberal cause in New York in order to appeal to the independent voters. But in Barry Goldwater's territory he has been supporting the conservative cause again.

We can be sure of one thing, though. He is against sin and swearing in the White House. He is for mothers, home and family, and all the other homely virtues that he thinks the American people demand in their President. He epitomizes the mediocrity that has characterized the past eight years—mediocrity in men, mediocrity in ideas and mediocrity in leadership.

I think that the American people will demand more than that from their President. I think that they will demand a man who has a sense of the destiny and purpose of this country and has the courage to lead us toward it. To me, there is no choice but to vote for John F. Kennedy.

POLITICAL WAY OF LIFE: The coffee hour is a basic part of the Princeton political campaign, as candidates for office meet voters in neighborhoods throughout town. In the top picture, taken at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Dodge, 641 Lake Drive, are—from the left—Maurice F. Healy Jr., Republican candidate for Township Committee; Mrs. Sally Worn, 25 Woodside Lane; Mayor R. Kenneth Fairman, running for a second term; Stuart Robson, unopposed GOP candidate for assessor; and Mrs. Dodge. In the lower picture, taken at the Hawthorne Avenue home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Schuster, are Dr. Albert A. Austen, Republican candidate for Borough Council; Mrs. Joseph R. Wood, captain of the Borough Republican County Committee; Mr. Schuster, Dr. Ellwood Godfrey, also a Council candidate; Mrs. Godfrey and (seated) Mrs. Schuster.

WHO'LL WIN? WHY, OF COURSE, IT'S . . . "Nixon, without question," says Mrs. William M. Thompson (left.) "Kennedy, naturally," replies Mrs. Esther Pogrebin. For other estimates of who will win, regardless of the individual's personal preference, see below. (Staff Photos.)

Question of the Week

Question: Regardless of how you plan to vote, who do you think will win the election?

Where asked: Palmer Square.

David Ladlum, 295 Riverside Drive, editor: I think Kennedy. There has been no national surge for Nixon and that is what he needs. He's got to get about 15 percent of the normally Democratic voters if he is to be elected because the Democrats outnumber the Republicans in key states. I feel the popular vote will be close but the electoral vote may be quite surprising.

Miss Scarvia Anderson, 172 Red Hill Road, ETS employee: I don't plan to vote for him but I think Kennedy will win the election. I don't believe that either candidate has the universal, beyond-party appeal that Eisenhower had. So I feel there will be a return to voting along party lines and, as you know, there are more Democrats than Republicans.

Joseph Smith, 459 Norway Avenue, Trenton, real estate and insurance for Walter B. Howe: I still think Nixon. Why? Because I think the religious issue is going to kill Kennedy.

Mrs. W. H. Scheide, 133 Library Place, housewife: I think Kennedy will win. He has tremendous appeal — his manner, his appearance, he seems to give out or project a feeling of confidence when he speaks, but I'm not going to vote for him. An awful lot of people would like to see a change in party administration, too.

Robert Molley, 35 Markham Road, physicist: I think Kennedy will win. I feel the Catholic vote in some of the big, key industrial states like Pennsylvania and New York will push the election in favor of Kennedy even though he may lose some of the southern states because of this issue.

Mrs. Alix Steveas, Belle Mead, housewife: Nixon. I just think he is better qualified and that he has shown up better publically in his speeches across the nation and on the TV debates.

Konrad Bachmann, Graduate College, biology student: I think Kennedy but it is not at all a clear edge. After seeing Kennedy on the TV debates and from what I have read in the newspapers, my impression of Kennedy is a little more favorable than that of Nixon.

Mrs. Norman Webster, Scott Avenue, Princeton Junction, housewife: I'm sort of up a tree. I'd like to see Nixon win but I have a feeling Kennedy is going to. Kennedy has a wonderful personality. He can project. The people respond to him. He has what it takes. Poor Nixon. He's as sincere as the day is long but I don't know if he can put it across. I hope he can. I'm going to vote for him.

Kenneth Webster, 52 Titus Avenue, Lawrenceville, piano tuner: Well, it looks more and more like Kennedy. It is my opinion that the Democrats are spending a lot more money in the race than the Republicans are. I see Kennedy on TV almost every night. I also think Kennedy is a better public figure than Nixon. It's obvious he makes a better and more effective appearance before crowds than does Nixon. He's not an FDR but he does O.K. I'm voting for Nixon.

Mrs. Esther Pogrebin, Pine Drive, Roosevelt, claims department for Adlerman Insurance Co.: Kennedy. I think Nixon is not positive enough in any original thinking that is different from that of the Eisenhower administration which, in my opinion, has been quite passive in regard to both domestic and foreign policy. I am unhappy about Kennedy — I would have preferred Stevenson — but I'll vote for him.

Peter Kunstadter, 376 Walnut Lane: I think the Republicans are going to win the presidential election and the Democrats will increase their control in the House and in the Senate.

Mrs. John McAndrew, 235 Edgerstoune Road, housewife: I still think it's very, very close at the moment but I hope Kennedy has an edge. I'm for Kennedy.

Richard Kachoemund, 19 University Place, University professor: Unfortunately, Kennedy. I have my reasons for saying this but I would rather not reveal them.

James S. Clark, 62 Hartley Avenue, horticulturist in the University: Nixon, because I think he is probably a little more popular and has had wider experience on the political scene.

Mrs. William M. Thompson, 525 Mercer Road, housewife: Richard Nixon. There is no question about it. He has more integrity, more experience, he's just the better man all-around. The principles for which he stands are more in concert with what this country believes in.

Mrs. Marie Stanton, Collingswood, housewife: All the pollsters, political pundits, and even the bookies out in Las Vegas refuse to predict the outcome of this one—it's that neck and neck. But even though I am a registered Democrat, I intend to give my vote to Nixon because I feel so strongly on the issue of Quemoy and Matsu. I'm against any more appeasement to the Communists. Until Eisenhower was slapped in the face by Khrushchev at the summit meeting in Paris, he allowed himself to be afraid that the Communists might start a war if we didn't play ball their way. When Kennedy said he thought Eisenhower should have apologized to Khrushchev, that turned me against him.

Obituaries

Calvin N. Barclay, 43, of 210 Birch Avenue, died October 19 in Princeton Hospital after a long illness. A chef at the Tower Club of Princeton University, he was a member of the Witherspoon Lodge of Elks, No. 178, IEPOE of Princeton.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Gertrude Todd Barclay; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Vassar Gaines, and his grandmother, Mrs. Ellen Nutter, all of Princeton. The funeral was held at the Mount Pisgah AME Church with the pastor the Rev. Yancey L. Sims officiating. Burial was in Princeton Cemetery.

HANDEL TO BE SUNG

"Judas Maccabaeus." The Little Orchestra under Thomas Scherman and the 40-voice Choral Art Society of New York will join in presenting Handel's oratorio "Judas Maccabaeus" on Saturday, November 12, at 8:30 in Dillon Gymnasium on the University campus. The appearance is being sponsored by the Princeton Entertainment Bureau, and tickets are available through the Bureau, Box 591, Princeton, at $1.50, $2.10, $3.20 and $3.90.

Reviewing the Scherman "Judas" after its initial performance in December last year, The New York Times critic commented, "Judas Maccabaeus" has a stirring vitality and touching beauty. The choruses have thrust and ardor. Mr. Scherman led a performance that caught the size and grandeur of the oratorio."

Scherman founded the Little Orchestra in 1947 because he wanted to revive the kind of small, elegant, compact ensemble for which Bach, Haydn and Mozart wrote, and because he felt that the modern concert repertoire should leave behind the established stereotypes and present important new music and long-neglected works from the past.

ISAAC STERN PLAYS

Musicianship First. Sometimes it is possible for a writer of music reviews to remain an objective critic, but there are times when he feels impelled to voice a purely personal reaction. Such was the case with Isaac Stern's concert at McCarter Theatre on Monday night. Quite simply, it was the best violin recital this reviewer has yet heard.

There are many great violinists playing today, and Isaac Stern, as everyone knows, is one of them. In the latter part of his program (Szymanowski, Paganini, and as encores, Wagner and Prokofiev) he proved that he could deal with violinistic fireworks and nosegays as well as anyone. His bowing, intonation, and sense of timing are dead-accurate.

But Isaac Stern is far more than a great virtuoso. He is first of all a great musician, and only secondly a violinist. This is the difference between great artistry and virtuosity and it could not have been demonstrated more convincingly than in Mr. Stern's performances of Mozart, Beethoven, Bartok, Schumann and Brahms.

This level of musicianship was immediately manifested in the opening performance of the Mozart "Sonata in G Major" (K. 301). Too often Mozart sonatas are used as mere "curtain-raisers," or as vehicles for tonal display.

COMING TO PRINCETON: Thomas Scherman will bring his Little Orchestra to Princeton on November 12 to present Handel's "Judas Maccabaeus."

Mr. Stern's performance brought to this work an interpretation of rare understanding: at once elegant and balanced, but in such moments as the middle section of the second movement, as expressive as a Schubert lied. Moreover, where many violinists ignore the frequent predominance of the piano part, so often a characteristic of Mozart's works in this medium, Mr. Stern never allowed his accompanying figurations to become obtrusive. This is the sort of sensitivity with which Mozart should be played.

Unfortunately Bela Bartok's works for solo violin cannot compare to his concerto for this instrument, and the "Rhapsody No. 1" which Mr. Stern played is one of the least impressive works of this great composer. The performance, however, was in every way faithful to the intent of the piece, emphasizing, as it did, the ruminating, improvisatory elements of the highly nationalistic idiom in which it is composed.

The Schumann "Intermezzo in F. Major" and the Brahm's "Scherzo in C Minor," excerpts from the famous but rarely-heard "F.A.E." sonata by Schumann, Brahme, and Dietrich, were a pleasure to hear, and were performed with a youthful spontaneity appropriate to the conception of the work.

It was, however, in the Beethoven "Sonata in C Minor" (movingly dedicated by Mr. Stern to the principles of the United Nations) that the listener was best able to appreciate this violinist's unrivaled interpretive abilities. This reviewer has often wondered whether he preferred the broad sweep and polish which an artist such as Arthur Grumiaux brings to the Beethoven sonatas, or the intensity of characterization in performances such as those of Matthew Raimondi in his Beethoven cycle given in New York two years ago.

Isaac Stern, amazingly, encompassed the best qualities of both interpretations. With a variety of tonal and dynamic inflection, ranging from a biting (but never forced) attack to the most expressive of pianissimo (and even pizzicato!) playing, he gave to the work the diversity of character in detail but coherence in the large which is so essential to Beethoven's music.

To hear such subtle and purposive playing is a rare experience. The only defect in this otherwise admirable interpretation was the somewhat detached quality of the piano part. Alexander Zakin, an obviously accomplished pianist, was perhaps handicapped by the lid of his instrument not being raised, as it should be in a work that is essentially a duo.

Music In Princeton

Isaac Stern's recital was a superior artistic accomplishment, and an exciting opening of the Series II concerts; the capacity audience demonstrated its appreciation in a standing ovation. It is to be hoped that this attendance and enthusiasm will extend to the remainder of this Series, which promises to be one of the Princeton University Concerts' finest.

WEINRICH WILL PLAY

In Organ Recital. Carl Weinrich will give his first recital of the season this Sunday at 3:30 p. m. in the University Chapel. Subsequent recitals this fall will take the world-renowned organist as far as Texas, and in the spring, he will travel to the west coast to play.

For his Princeton recital, he has chosen a program consisting of the Toccata, Adagio and Fugue in C Major and Passacaglia in C Minor by J. S. Bach, a Voluntary for Double Organ by John Lugge, Variations on "The Woods so Wild" by William Byrd and a Partita by William Denny.

GLEE CLUBS TO SING

Harvard, Princeton. Continuing their traditional Football Concert Series, the Princeton and Harvard Glee Clubs will join in concert next Friday, November 4 at 8:30 p. m. in Alexander Hall on the University Campus.

With the concert, Walter Nollner will begin his third year as conductor of the club. The Harvard group will be led by Elliot Forbes, formerly associate professor of music at Princeton, and founder of the Freshman Glee Club.

The Princeton Glee Club will offer a motet for men's chorus, organ, oboe and clarinet by Heinrich Schutz, a 15th century British carol, and the premiere of a dance-song for double chorus by Hans Leo Hassler as arranged by Mr. Nollner. Haydn's "To the Women" and Schubert's "Contradiction" will conclude the first group.

Harvard will join with Princeton to present the Coronation Scene from Moussorgsky's "Boris Goudunov." The Harvard Club will then sing five Slovak folk songs by Bartok, two American folk songs and a "Harvardiana" group. Princeton will sing 18th century English song, two Negro spirituals, the spool, "To the Tiger", and a football medley. In conclusion, the Clubs will sing together "Fair Harvard" and "Old Nassau".

ADVERTISING VOLUME is based on results. That's why TOWN TOPICS carries more classified advertising each week in the year than all other Princeton papers combined.

INDEX PUBLISHED

For Third Quarter of 1960. The Princeton Business Index, published by TOWN TOPICS this week, reflects the changes and stabilities of the summer quarter of the year, including the months of July, August and September.

The sharpest changes appear to be those in the real estate field, but some of the most outstanding dips mean only that the land and building situation has found a certain equilibrium following a large University building project. For example, the 600 percent decline in the value of Borough building permits from last summer reflects the University's 1959 start on its College Road buildings. No comparable structures were begun during the corresponding period this year.

In the Township, the value of building permits changed only 1 percent over the summer quarter of 1960. The 70 percent jump in the spring quarter is traceable to the University's new 96-apartment unit now being built on the north shore of Lake Carnegie.

New car sales, down 25 percent from the spring quarter, reflect a seasonal dip that is normal in the industry. There is a 6 percent gain over the summer quarter of 1959.

Unemployment compensation figures for Princeton are computed by the TTrenton office of the state employment agency which computes Trenton area figures and then makes statistical allowances based on theh Princeton population. Trenton, of course, is affected by industrial unemployment in a way that Princeton is not, and the accuracy of these Princeton figures is wholly dependent upon the accuracy of the statistical allowance made for the Princeton population. Here, unemployment traditionally goes up in the summer when the University's dining halls and eating clubs close.

In other categories, the trend of the Index is slowly and steadily upward. Checking accounts went down 3 percent over last year, but savings accounts were 16 percent greater, and checking accounts themselves increased 4 percent over the spring quarter. Telephones are up, reflecting the new housing picture, parking meter receipts are higher by 5 percent than they were a year ago (down, of course, for the summer quarter when vacationers leave their parking spaces behind).

How much Life Insurance should you own?

Most of us have asked this question ooly to discover there is no ready-made answer because needs and circumstances vary from family to family. The father of three children has greater needs and responsibilities than the young man who has just recently married. Some people have more substaotial financial reserves than others. How much Life Insurance should you own to meet YOUR needs? Would it be $15,000? — $25,000? — $50,000 or more?
The Man from Manufacturers is in business to help you arrive at the right answer. Through his Security Graph Service you yourself can determine if you have enough life insurance to do the job you want done. Ask him about this special service today.

A HOLE THAT GOT BIGGER AND BIGGER: Tailback Jack Sullivan bursts through Cornell line as tackle John Craig (on ground after spilling Cornell's 66) provides key block. The Tiger ball carrier ran for 30 yards on this first period play, taking the ball to Ithacans' four-yard line. Two downs later, he got Princeton's second touchdown of eventual 21 - 18 victory. TIGERS ARE READY

For Stretch Run. An offense that is now rolling with real authority, plus topflight squad morale, has carried Princeton's football team to a spot generally considered unattainable for the Tigers on the eve of the climactic November battles. They enter the final half of the season entrenched in a first-place tie, and off their increasingly solid play to date, any repetition of last year's three straight November losses seems virtually impossible.

This Saturday, it will be cellar-dwelling Brown which comes to Palmer Stadium. Despite the problems the Rhode Islanders have created for Princeton teams looking ahead to Harvard and Yale in other years, a close contest this weekend is wholly unlikely. The kickoff will be at 2 p. m. and a couple of hours later, the Tigers should either remain in a first-place Ivy tie with Yale or stand there alone if Dartmouth manages to trim the Elis.

Hit extremely hard by graduation, and minus even the two or three standouts such as Don Warburton, Paul Choquette and Frank Finney who have given sparkle to the Brains in other seasons, Brown has multiple problems. The Rhode Island entry lent false optimism to Columbia by virtue of the 37-0 shellacking the Lions achieved in the opener. On a basis of this brief flight to the stars, Columbia claimed to be a factor in the 1960 race—and hasn't won a game since.

Brown, meanwhile, went into the fourth game of its season before it scored a point. After successive whitewash jobs at the hands of Columbia, Yale and Dartmouth, the Brains lead Penn briefly before losing by three touchdowns. Last week, they topped Rhode Island, 36-14, for the lone victory they are likely to experience this year.

Brown Will Gamble. A losing team is a gambling team, and Brown can be expected to play a wide open game in the hopes of achieving a major upset. Under John McLaughry, in his second year at Providence, the visitors operate from the side-saddle wing T, splitting one or both ends to a distance of ten yards.

With the quarterback stationed between guard and center, he can either take the ball as a T offense requires or permit a direct snap to another ball carrier. The novel attack produced few dividends when installed last season, Brown finishing with a 2-6-1 mark and recording a notable day only in its 16-0 upset of Harvard.

Top threat the Rhode Islanders will field is quarterback Jack Rohrbach, who is likely to throw upwards of 20 passes and has a completion record of 34 for 75 (45 percent) in four Ivy games to date. Actually, Rohrbach's 357 yards gained make him the league's individual offense leader, but this four-game total will not stand up against Hugh Scott's 348 yards in three games, or Jack Sullivan's 321.

The visitors will field a first team that should keep matters on a fairly even keel for a while, but their reserves taper off badly. The line is fairly good size (around 200 pounds) but markedly short of experience, and no team without a solid line is likely to cause Princeton much trouble in the remaining games this season.

CORNELL WAS READY

But Tigers Took Charge. It memories of the 34-8 defeat two years ago were uppermost in many Princetonians' minds, so they were in Cornell's. The Ithacans had many alumni on hand for homecoming day, a triumph would keep them in the thick of the Ivy race and the degree of eagerness to achieve it was visibly there.

Missing, however, was the defensive ability to contain the Tigers, who gave their most eye-filling display of solid know-how on attack since the year they last won the Ivy title—1957. A near-incredible total of seven fumbles—five of which Cornell recovered—kept the game from becoming a rout, but it can be said that this was easily the most one-sided 21-18 contest played in many a year.

With sophomore quarterback John Henrich mixing up his plays beautifully, and contributing one crunching block after another, Princeton rolled 72 yards in just ten plays the first time it got the ball. Before the quarter ended, another dozen plays had erased 80 yards and brought a second TD—Jack Sullivan scoring them both.

In the final analysis, it was the victors' ability to convert extra points that offset the damaging tendency to fumble. Dave Gouldin booted the first, sophomore Dan Terpack (see "We Congratulate") passed for a two-point conversion after the next TD and when the third Princeton score gave the Orange and Black a nine-point (21-12) bulge, there was little to worry about throughout the second half.

The final Princeton score came on a 42-yard pass play from Scott to end Henry Large. Thereafter, the Tigers drove to the Cornell seven mid-way through the final period, but Scott fumbled, the Red recovered and eventually got its third touchdown when there were just 26 seconds left on the clock.

Unnecessary roughness charged against Princeton kept the Ithacans' drive in motion. It was not, however, a loose-tempered personal foul—merely a close call by an official who felt that a Tiger tackler had hit a potential Cornell receiver too long after a pass incompletion.

Princeton Plays Well. While it will be essential to correct the fumbling, an expensive habit that kept the Tigers from breaking the game wide open, observers left Ithaca with the overall impression that this Princeton team is capable of playing a considerable amount of good football. The total of 410 yards on offense—308 running, 102 passing—is one of the best recorded in recent years against an opponent which, at game-time, held first division status in the Ivy League.

Steadily improving field generalship on the part of John Henrich has much to do with this, as does the crisp blocking by many players in both the line and the backfield. So, of course, do the authoritive running of Scott and Sullivan from the tailback slot—the former with picturesque ability to use his blockers and to make that extra yardage on toughness; Sullivan, with a slimmer build, on a fine blend of speed, elusiveness and experience.

Defensively, the Tigers still need to improve, as the total of seven touchdowns yielded to Colgate and Cornell will show. They have won on each of the last two Saturdays only because neither opponent could handle their offense, which in the last four games has run up the unusually high average of 32 points per outing.

Definitely the brightest aspect of the Tigers' defensive qualifications this season is the fact that they are near the top of the Ivy League statistics in pass defense. With a total of 289 yards allowed the opposition in three games to date—for an average of only 93 yards a game—they are second only to Dartmouth in this respect. The fact that all of their opponents have had to pass if they were to have any hope of winning makes the figure even more appealing.

PHS HAS OPEN DATE

Plays Long Branch Nov. 5. The Princeton High School football team, presently 3-1-1, has an open date this weekend. The Little Tigers will return to the gridiron November 5, opposing Long Branch at Long Branch and will close out their seven-game schedule the following Saturday against Ewing.

The tie on its record was added Friday when PHS came from behind to score twice in the final quarter to deadlock Trenton Catholic on Trenton High's gridiron, 13-13. About the only positive factor to emerge from the deadlock was its clarifying effect on the heretofore muddied picture of who would wear the Mercer Coun-

WE Congratulate

DAN TERPACK
Princeton Wingback

Sophomores, so the thinking goes before a season begins, stand virtually no chance of cracking the starting lineup. To confound the experts thoroughly, the only sophomore with four lettermen ahead of him on the depth chart this fall won a starting position so resoundingly that no one is likely to get it away from him for the next three years.

What makes his success all the more fascinating is that Dan Terpack is far and away the smallest man on the team with measurements that have to be stretched a bit to make him the 5-9, 165 with which the roster credits him. More and more, football is becoming a big man's game, with backs 190 pounds and linemen 210 to 220 the rule more than the exception.

If Terpack isn't as big, he's often a good deal smarter. In the four games he has started —all of which Princeton has won—the statistics give him three recovered fumbles and an end zone pass interception, clear proof that he has the knack of being in the right place at the right time.

Princeton's pass defense is vastly improved this season, with the diminutive wingback's poise and diagnostic ability playing a major part in the grudging 93 yards a game the Tigers have yielded in the air to Ivy opposition. Even receivers half a foot taller than he have had trouble when the ball is thrown into his sector.

On offense, Terpack is averaging 4.1 yards per carry and he lends added threat to the Princeton attack as a left-handed passer. One of the three he has completed this season (out of five attempts) brought an invaluable two-point conversion at Ithaca—a game the butter-fingered Princetonians finally won by extra points.

A resident of Wilkes-Barre and a product of Coughlin High School there, the 19-year old Pennsylvanian came to Princeton as a topflight student who had won numerous scholastic honors. His field in college is electrical engineering.

Under 1960 rules, football coaches are steadily resorting to the "wild card," a substitute whose specialty is better than that of a player who may have started the game. In Palmer Stadium, Terpack goes off the field when the second unit comes in, but there is no "wild card" replacement for him. The smallest guy on the starting team is a solid two-way player.

ty Crown. It would appear now that the fight for County laurels has narrowed to a struggle between Trenton High and the Blue Devils of Ewing.

It was a curious game that the Blue and White and the Wave engaged in before a handfull of people on a cold, partly cloudy afternoon. Half of it was a dreadful, scoreless melange of penalties, fumbles, and uninspired play that would be hard to distinguish from the sandlot efforts of a bunch of eight-graders. The second half, wholly different, contained elements of what makes football the fascinating sport to watch that it is.

An example was the complete turnabout of the Little Tigers, who in the first half had gained only one first down and had possession of the ball for only four plays in the entire third quarter. In the final ten minutes of play they suddenly transformed themselves from a listless team into an invincible eleven that marched 78 and 53 yards for two quick touchdowns and was on the enemy 11 when time ran out.

TC Scores First. After a scoreless first half, the Wave returned the opening kickoff to its 35 and then proceeded to drive the remaining 65 yards in nine plays. The touchdown came on a seven-yard pass, the only aerial play in the march, from quarterback Art Nitti to fullback Joe Comfort. Co-captain Dave Smith broke through to block the attempted conversion and the Chestnut Avenue team led 6-0.

Early in the fourth period, TC scored again as a result of a costly fumble by Gil Fisher who fumbled a punt on his own 11-yard line. Ernie Colucci TC right guard fell on the loose ball and one play later teammate Frank Bencivengo banged over right tackle into the end zone. On a fake kick, Bencivengo crossed the goal line for TC's 13 point and, as one bystander put it, "the ball game."

Pemberton Rolls. The visitors roared back, marching 78 yards in eight plays. The inert Little Tigers got the spark they needed when Charles Pemberton went up the middle to his own 42 for a 20-yard gallop. Three plays later, he carried up the middle again for a 12-yard advance.

Co-captain Russ Perone scored the TD on a sparkling display of open field running down the sidelines. Russ faked four would be tacklers en route and, when finally corraled by two Catholic tacklers near the goal line, managed to spin away into the end zone for PHS' first six points. Howie Gould's try for the extra point was blocked by Joe Melillo who probably saved his team from a one-point defeat as Gould, who seldom misses, had gotten his kick off well.

TROPHY WINNERS: Mayor Raymond F. Male (center) presents trophies to Mrs. James Whelan and Eddie Donovan. The two golfers won the one-day tournaments for Princeton area residents staged last summer at the Mercer County golf course in West Trenton.

Pemberton Scores. Princeton got a chance to score again when Smith fell on Bencivengo's fumble on the PHS 42. In nine plays Allen Wood, Perone, and Gould carried to the ten. With two minutes left to play, Pemberton shot up the middle of a now disorganized Catholic defense to score standing up. No one was able to block Gould's PAT attempt this time and the game was tied.

The Little Tigers weren't finished yet. With 1:33 left the Blue and White recovered another Wave fumble on the TC 34. Cath-

Soccer Team Eyes Title

While Princeton's football team has been making headlines with its unanticipated first-place tie in the Ivy League, Coach Jimmy Reed's soccer team is in even better shape. The Tiger booters are alone atop the standings, following last weekend's 1-0 victory over Cornell.

Princeton has also trimmed Columbia, Penn and Dartmouth to rank as the only unbeaten entry in the circuit on the strength of its 4-0 mark. The Tigers must still face Brown, Harvard and Yale, with the Brown game set for Goldie Field Saturday morning at 11.

Princeton area residents on the squad include Adrian Colley and Austin Sullivan of Princeton, Jim Hicks of Hightstown and Dennis Stewart of Hopewell.

olic, which a few minutes ago had the game in its hip pocket, now found itself fighting to salvage a tie.

Perone raced 17 yards to the 17-yard line. An incomplete pass, Perone to Wood, ate up only five seconds. Twenty remained, but the one thing the fired-up Little Tigers could not beat was the clock and the game ended with the visitors on the TC 11.

HUN ELEVEN ALL EVEN After Four Games. Of the three times that Hun School and Friends Central have met on the gridiron, the Philadelphia School has won twice and tied once. The Red and Black will get its fourth chance to beat Central for the first time when it plays host to it Friday at 3.

Hun will be handicapped in its bid for its third win as the result of an injury to co-captain Dave Savidge who suffered a dislocated shoulder in Saturday's 28-8 loss to Tower Hill and will probably be out for the remainder of the season. Another questionable starter for Friday's contest is halfback Robert Kay, who sprained his ankle in the same game and was forced to leave the field. "It's a hard one to predict," said Hun coach Hawley Waterman, "but we'll be in there doing our best to try to bounce back."

Hun Scores Early. The Red and Black started as if it were going to blast visiting Tower Hill right off the field. After receiving the opening kickoff, Hun, in three plays, drove to the Wilmington school's 45. Halfback Cary Grover then uncorked a 15-yard running pass to end Jay Maynell who went all the way for a 45-yard scoring play and six points. Tim Walsh ran the PAT to put Hun in front, 8-0.

From there on, however, Tower Hill provided all the fireworks. On the first play from scrimmage after Hun had scored, the visitors connected on a long pass that carried to the Hun 12. From there Bill Straub went over with the first of two TD's. Hun stopped the attempted PAT run to cling to an 8-6 lead.

Coach Bobby DeGroat's team, which Waterman compared to a machine in its methodical drives down field, scored again in the second period to take a 14-8 lead at halftime. The winners scored again in the third and fourth quarters to win handily. The losers have yet to register a win over Tower Hill.

IT'S TOMLINSON AGAIN In Carnegie Dingy Racing. For the third time this month, Henry Tomlinson won the Penguin Class Dinghy Races held Sunday afternoon on Lake Carnegie. His point total was 38 as he crossed the line first on two occasions and second on two others.

Trailing were Bill Clagett, 36 8; John Bernard, 22.3; Walt Jefferson, 16; Patrick Holt, 18.1; Art Keiser, 18; Bill Wilson and Tom Huntington, each 15; Ted Nicoll, 14.1; and Walt Foster, 13.1.

BOWLING NOTES

Walker Gordon Increases Lead. The Walker Gordon bowling team continued to make a runaway of the "B" league as it increased its lead to five games over Sportmen No. 1 (28) to highlight Princeton bowling action last week. Edwards Engraving held the third spot with 27 points, while Prince Laundro was fourth with 26. Kase Kleaners broke out of a tie to lead Nelson Glass (26) by one game in the "A" loop. Decker's Dairy was third, a game and a half off the pace.

Nassau Service (26) took over first place in the Industrial League, topping Tiger Garage and the Reformers by one game. Craft Cleaners moved into a first place tie with Nassau Bootery, with 18 victories each, in the Women's League. Cranbury Bank held third place with 26 points. Nassau Service (48) continued to lead the Women's Industrial loop, followed by Decker's Dairy (42) and Princeton Motor Lodge (40).

Bill Dunmire again rolled the top individual game of the week with a 240 in the Industrial League. Other notable scores included Ralph Kleiber, 211, and Herbert Ireland, 201, in the Industrial loop; and Al Hibberd, 226; Rudy Ehart, 221; Dave Cifelli, 218; Joe Baldino, 204; Mike Pinelli, 202; Wilton Rose, 201; Bob Sculerati and Ralph Pirone, 200 each, all in the "B" League.

Also, Percy Klatskin and Russ Sutphin, 211 each; Bill Bathle, 203; and Fred Goeke, 200, in the "A" loop. Marge Bloom topped the Women's League with 206, followed by Millie Trani, 198, and Elizabeth Brown, 195-173. Georgie Shuren rolled the high score in the Women's Industrial League, 199. Report from THE MAYOR

MEMORABLE: It seems likely that Princeton's celebration of United Nations Week will not be soon forgotten. Rarely if ever have so many organizations in this or any community been so well represented in behalf of a united effort to demonstrate our determination to work for understanding and friendship among the peoples of the world.

The crowded events of the past weekend were filled with dramatic evidence of real enthusiasm on the part of many, many people. Our visitors from the United Nations expressed genuine pleasure at the warmth of their reception by everyone in this town.

HIGHLIGHTS: Among the highlights of the celebration were the constructive workshop at the Woodrow Wilson School; the well-planned dinner and special program at St. Paul's School; the Sunday breakfast at the YM-YW where everyone was touched by the impromptu and exciting expression of friendship expressed by Ambassador Michel Gallin - Douathe of the Central African Republic; the festival program at the University Chapel with the major address by Paul Hoffman of the United Nations Special Fund; the reception at the Student Center; and the series of informal gatherings as Princeton families played host to our visitors from around the world.

A CHARTER: Many Princetonians attended the fine program at the War Memorial in Trenton on Sunday evening. Governor Meyner was the host for this statewide meeting, at which Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt delivered the principal address and presented to the Mayors of Princeton and Trenton the charters for new local chapters of the American Association for the United Nations. The Greater Trenton Symphony, conducted by our own Nicholas Harsanyi, presented the world premiere of "Preamble to Peace", a stirring cantata by Earl Robinson, with the Mercer County Chorus and with Melvyn Douglas as narrator.

MADE IN PRINCETON: The UN committee in Princeton wanted very much to have a complete set of flags for the 99 member nations. Nine flags of the newly independent nations were not yet available.

In some cases, only two were known to be in existence. This did not stop the committee.

The UN supplied information as to the designs and colors and Rita Schrank, Alice and Susan Male actually made flags for display during UN week in Princeton. Their special efforts meant that the flags of Upper Volta, Ivory Coast, Togo, Niger, Somalia, Cypress, Central African Republic, Senegale and Dahomey were available for the Festival on Sunday.

A BEGINNING: Many other events will complete the full week of celebration of the UN's 15th anniversary. Many of our guests, including Ambassador Pinto of the Republic of Dahomey, made it clear that they intend to return to Princeton to continue their visit and to maintain their contacts with so many of our folks who already, as they said, seem like "old friends."

M. Gallin made it clear that his impressions of America and her people were greatly changed from those he had gathered in the big city of New York. Again special thanks must go to Chairman MacCalmont, every member of his working committee, the interpreters, guides and volunteers, and everyone in Princeton who helped to make friends for themselves and for America during these great days.

FRIDAY OPEN HOUSE: The regular weekly "Tell It to the Mayor!" sessions will be held on Friday for the next several weeks. Sessions will be held on October 28, November 4 and November 11 from 7 to 10 p.m. at Borough Hall. No appointment is ever necessary for these informal meetings.

Mayor and Council will meet for the agenda preparation session on Monday, October 31, and the regular November meeting of Mayor and Council will be held on Thursday, November 10, since the general election falls on the regular meeting date.

SECRETARIES

Openings both with and without shorthand. College training and previous secretarial experience necessary. High verbal ability and alertness in proofing own work are of vital importance. Confidential nature of these positions requires discretion, and broad internal contacts demand tactfulness and good judgment.

ADMINISTRATIVE ASSISTANT

Young woman needed to assist department head in handling own correspondence, maintaining variety of records pertaining to orders processed and shipped and answering telephone inquiries about available services. College degree essential. Should be public relations minded in dealing with both colleagues and outside contacts, and be as comfortable in working with figures as in writing correspondence.

TEMPORARY ASSISTANTS

Openings in several areas of office work, both immediate and future. Persons applying should be available 3 to 6 months.

One area — for men or women — is the scanning of financial statements, which requires both judgment and attention to detail. In a few cases something less than the full 37½ hour week may be acceptable.

Another area is filing work, quite varied, calling for a high degree of accuracy.
